To Whom It May Concern:

Opening a new school can be a daunting task, especially when it comes to making sure that the vision that you have for the appearance of the school, both inside and out, actually comes to fruition. Knowing what you want is only part of the equation, finding and acquiring it is quite another. With so much information out there, having someone who is knowledgeable about what products are available, and how to make that whole process a bit simpler is an absolute necessity!

That is where Coyote Furnishings and Jeff Marton come in. I was able to convey my vision and concepts for the furnishings that would set our new school apart from all the others, and they were able to deliver. We purchased everything from classroom desks/tables/chairs, to office furniture, outdoor dining tables, trash receptacles, and much more.

Jeff met with us regularly to make sure that the decisions we were making regarding furnishings were exactly what we wanted; styles, colors, fabrics, materials, ...everything. He continued to follow up with phone calls or in person, keeping me informed at every step. After the sale and upon delivery, Jeff and his staff assembled the furniture and set up the individual areas just as we instructed. Any issues that came to our attention, were handled quickly and in a professional manner. Jeff continues to check in periodically to see if there are issues with any of his products.

Coyote Furnishings and Jeff Marton helped to make our vision a reality. It was our hope to create a unique environment that looked and felt unlike the typical school setting. I can say, we achieved our goal!

Respectfully,
